

Manpower re-launches Bristol branch as city's employers seek specialist skills

[DATE] AUGUST 2014: ManpowerGroup, the global leader in contingent and permanent recruitment workforce solutions, has re-launched its Bristol branch following an extensive refurbishment.

The branch has now been re-launched as a Metro, a flagship sector-specialist site capable of recruiting for the largest volume requirements, which will offer companies and jobseekers an even better range of services and opportunities.

ManpowerGroup has installed specialist service desks within the branch to recruit across a range of sectors which are in demand in the city such as Industrial and Technical, Public Sector, Finance and Insurance, and HR, Marketing & Sales.

The official opening of the Bristol Metro was attended by Mark Cahill, ManpowerGroup UK Managing Director, who commented, "Our Metro branches are our flagship branches, located in cities where we have a busy stream of roles to fill, so it made perfect sense to open our latest one in Bristol. This latest Metro opening means we're better placed than ever to help businesses find the talent they require, and we are sure that our investment in the local economy, local companies and jobseekers will pay off."

Bristol Metro operations manager Mike Matthewman added: "I am delighted about the improvements which we will be able to deliver for both employers and jobseekers with our new format. A lot of employers in Bristol are looking for candidates with specialist skills such as engineering and technical skills and legal experience and the Metro format means we are even better placed to deliver on this. We have some excellent roles available right now across a range of sectors and for a number of great organisations such as HR Dept (Bristol) Ltd, Big Yellow Storage and South West Ambulance Service. I encourage jobseekers in Bristol to come and visit us to find out more."
