

CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR NORTHERN IRISH JOBSEEKERS

MANPOWERGROUP EMPLOYMENT OUTLOOK SURVEY REVEALS JOBS OPTIMISM IN NORTHERN IRELAND HAS BOUNCED BACK INTO POSITIVE TERRITORY

- Outlook of +4% for the area
- Automotive sector driving the region's resurgence
- Hospitality roles increase as overseas visitor numbers rise

13 DECEMBER 2016: Jobseekers in Northern Ireland have cause for optimism this Christmas, according to ManpowerGroup, the world's workforce experts. After last quarter's regional Outlook slumped into negative territory (-1%), job prospects in the region have jumped five points this quarter to +4%. Despite the improved Outlook, post- EU referendum uncertainty means that the region still lags behind the national average of +7%.

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is based on responses from 2,104 UK employers. It asks whether employers intend to hire additional workers or reduce the size of their workforce in the coming quarter. It is the most comprehensive, forward-looking employment survey of its kind and is used as a key economic statistic by both the Bank of England and the UK government.

Amanda White, Operations Manager at Manpower, said: "The EU referendum has dented confidence among the region's employers as we saw in last quarter's fall into negative territory. At the moment there is still a lot of uncertainty about the region's economic future, and we're seeing some reluctance among candidates to move jobs. However, this quarter's jump into positive territory is encouraging. We hope this will improve further in the New Year when the economic picture becomes clearer."

"Demand for candidates in the automotive sector is rising, especially for vehicle mechanics and technicians. Candidates with experience in manufacturing and production, including factory workers and engineers, are also high on the wish-list for many employers in the region."

"Northern Ireland has experienced a real tourism boom in 2016, with the number of overseas visitors up 6% on the year before.¹ We've seen a number of new hotels spring up, meaning there are lots of new opportunities in the hospitality and construction industries."

The national seasonally adjusted Net Employment Outlook has risen to +7% for the first three months of 2017, the highest level of optimism in two years. Across the country the private sector plans to hire at its highest rate in three years (+8%), with the construction (+9%), business services (+9%) and utilities (+13%) sectors all reporting very positive Outlooks.

Mark Cahill, ManpowerGroup UK Managing Director: "UK companies are going into 2017 hungry for top talent. Employers are still unsure about what exactly Brexit will mean, but are not letting that uncertainty deter them from hiring. In fact, some employers may be looking to bring in talent while they can before any curbs to freedom of movement across the European Union come into effect, as more than half of all the jobs created by UK employers this year went to EU workers.”

All twelve regions of the UK reported positive Outlooks for the first three months of the year, with only two regions reporting a decline in hiring optimism. The East is the most positive region (+10%), followed by London (+9%). Yorkshire & Humberside reports the biggest increase, rising nine points to join the East Midlands, West Midlands, South West and Scotland on +8%. The North East and South East both report two point rises to +7% and + 5%, respectively. The North West (+3%) and Wales (+2%) are the only two regions to report falling Outlooks, both down two points on Q4 2016.

NOTES TO EDITORS

A 'Net Employment Outlook' is calculated by subtracting those employers who plan to reduce staffing levels from those who plan to hire staff. A positive result indicates that more employers plan to increase rather than decrease staffing levels; a negative result reflects the opposite. [% increase - % decrease]

Commentary is based on seasonally adjusted data where available. Full survey results for each of the 43 countries and territories included in this quarter's survey, plus regional and global comparisons, can be found in the ManpowerGroup Press Room at www.manpowergroup.com/meos. In addition, all tables and graphs from the full report are available to be downloaded for use in publication or broadcast from the ManpowerGroup Web site at: <http://www.manpowergroup.com/press/meos.cfm>

Note that in Quarter 2 2008, the Survey adopted the TRAMO-SEATS model for seasonal adjustment of data. As a result, you may notice some seasonally adjusted data points change slightly from previous reports. This model is recommended by the Eurostat department of the European Union and the European Central Bank, and is widely used internationally.

About the Survey

The world leader in innovative workforce solutions, ManpowerGroup releases the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey quarterly to measure employers' intentions to increase or decrease the number of employees in their workforce during the next quarter. It is the longest running, most extensive, forward-looking employment survey in the world, polling nearly 59,000 employers in 43 countries and territories. The survey serves as a bellwether of labour market trends and activities and is regularly used to inform the Bank of England's Inflation Reports, as well as a regular data source for the European Commission, informing its EU Employment Situation and Social Outlook report the Monthly Monitor. ManpowerGroup's independent survey data is also sourced by financial analysts and economists around the world to help determine where labour markets are headed.
