

Boosting the employability of young people

More than 750,000 young people are not in education, training or employment and at risk of feeling permanently left behind by their peers. ManpowerGroup is a part of a voluntary collaboration of UK employers committed to tackling youth unemployment. Through the Movement to Work scheme, we provided high quality work experience to 60 young people last year, 27 of whom found work or initiated training as a result of their involvement.
