

Helping Armed Force spouses access work

The spouses of armed forces personnel can make great concessions in their own careers in order to support and facilitate their partner's service. A new ManpowerGroup programme at Bulford camp in Tidmouth offers guidance to armed forces spouses who wish to return to work. Through CV workshops, interview coaching and one-to-one career guidance we help them take the next step, confident in their skills, abilities and experience. During the first three months of the programme, we engaged more than 100 individuals.

Ready for Work

Skilling Up

Integrating and Including